Gone to Washington.

According to the Advertiser, "J. Castle Ridgway has left Hilo for Washington, probably permanently. He has resigned as Deputy Collector of Customs for the support of Hilo and will accept a position at Washington under the Comptroller of the Currency. Mr. Ridgway left for the coast on the transport Sheridan."

Mr. Ridgway left Hilo without announcing his intentions, and the public generally was surprised at the news of his departure. Had it been known that he was about to go to Washington with the possibility that he would not return, a farewell reception would no doubt have been accorded him. Mr. Ridgway occupied a prominent position in Hilo, socially and in the business world, and had many friends who, regretting to lose him from their midst, will wish for him elsewhere the success his abilities should command.

HILONIAN ARRIVES.

Sails Into Harbor Sunday. New Steamer Object of Interest.

The steamer Hilonian, Johnson, master, of the Matson line, arrived from Seattle and Honolulu on her initial trip Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. She sailed into harbor the object of no little interest to the people of Hilo. She was gaily bedecked with the flags of all nations, three streamers reaching from top-mast to rail fluttering in the breeze. She gave no salute to the vessels in the harbor and received none, Mr. Severance dipping the flag flying from his residence on the point, alone manifesting a sign of the interest the people of this city have in the arrival of the city's namesake steamer. The Advertiser says describing the new steamer: The Hilonian once had a Spanish register and ran between Spain and the West Indies. She was then called the Gaditano. After being practically rebuilt at Newport News she came under the American flag. She is an oil-burning, twin-screw vessel, 347 feet in length with accommodations for 400 tons of cargo and 50 passengers, 30 in the first cabin. The Hilonian will run on a triangular course with San Francisco as the home port, but she may sail from Seattle later. Captain Johnson was formerly of the Rosecrans and the ill fated Rio de Janeiro. He saved fifty lives from the latter.

Fourth of July Amusements.

Preparations for the Fourth of July races are going rapidly forward these days. Fourteen Hawaiian-bred horses are in training at the track, also three Honolulu horses, with two more Hawaiian-breds to come. The horses are doing good work and are looking well.

The base ball game on the afternoon of the Fourth promises to be an interesting feature. The Punhou school team is coming over from Honolulu and a picked team from this island will meet them on the diamond out at.

The Hilo team will probably be made up as follows: Williams, of Paapaloa, pitcher, Solomon Lanakala, catcher; Easton, first base; Makuka, second; O. K. Akau, third; Teves, short-stop; with Todd, Morehead and Spaulding in the field. The program of events will begin promptly at 1 p. m. each day. Attractions for the evenings will be the Santiago play on the Fourth and the entertainment of the Hilo Branch of the Hawaiian Women's club on the fifth, both given in the Armory.

Quintet Club at Kohala.

The Lei Mamo quintet club and Geo. H. Williams were the Hilo representatives at Kohala ditch opening exercises on Monday. The club furnished music for the dance Saturday night at the Kohala Club; on Sunday rendered music at the home of Eben Low on the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Parker and the excursion party from Honolulu; Sunday evening there was more music at a farewell party given by Miss Mabel Woods for Miss R. Akana; Monday the club sang at the ditch opening in the morning and in the afternoon rendered music for the luau, and Monday evening the dance of the occasion called for the services of the club. The Honolulu people departed from Kohala on their return home at 10 o'clock Monday night to "Aloha Oe" by the quintet. The musicians who composed the quintet were A. C. Baker, Wm. K. Ragdale, Henry Rose, Unimui Matsuo, Ben Brown, Jr., Chas. Kalasauo. They are loud in their praises of the Kohala people for their hospitality.

LAST DAY AT HILO HIGH SCHOOL.

Exhibition Showing the High Standards Maintained.

The year's work at the high school was brought to a close last Thursday in a brief but comprehensive review of the studies covered. The object of the program was to give to those interested a fair basis for judging of the work done.

Conspicuous among the recitations was a dialogue in which an extensive conversation was conducted in German by the several members of Miss Porter's German Class. The ring scene, also, from "The Merchant of Venice," presented by five students of English literature, was an entertaining exhibition of work in that department. Much interest was also evinced in the blindfolded speed contest on the typewriter conducted under Mr. Smith's direction. A prize of ten dollars was offered to the fastest performer. The successful competitor was Mr. Luela Ke-ko, who achieved something like eighty-seven words per minute. He was closely seconded by Archie Wong Wai.

Mr. Richmond spoke briefly of the high school, present and prospective. He urged the conviction that an imposing building was not the best criterion by which to measure a high school, but rather that a safer basis for judgment lay in the course of study attempted, and the quality of the work accomplished. He said that during the past year work had been done in Hilo exactly equivalent to that done in secondary schools in these islands and on the mainland.
